

DIRECTORY
Service Animal Organizations

These are organizations and associations of service dog trainers, training programs, and people with disabilities partnered with service dogs. Please contact the organization directly for information.

Delta Society encourages consumers to find the best product or service by contacting and comparing several organizations. Note that there is variation in:

- products and services available
- qualification criteria for dogs and handlers
- acquisition costs
- policies regarding geographical placement of animals

Please read the service animal related pages on Delta Society's web site, <http://www.DeltaSociety.org>, and other sources for more detailed guidance about selecting the source that is right for you. In particular, we recommend that you read Information for People Considering a Service Dog.
